CALL FOR PAPERS
Call for Papers: The 8th CISSE International Conference. Submission deadline: October 29, 2012.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES
Basic Social and Behavioral Research on Culture, Health, and Wellbeing (R24), Letter of Intent Due: November 16, 2012; Application Due: December 17, 2012.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES
Survey Statistician/Demographer, U.S. Census Bureau. The Census Bureau is looking for someone who can take responsibility for the clearance of the language data, and, over the longer term, develop a deeper knowledge of the relationship of language to other social and demographic processes. It would be nice if the person had been exposed to some research on topics such as language shift, English language learners in school, labor market effects, etc. Anyone with good demographic skills and a willingness to learn more about the demography of language is encouraged to apply. If interested, contact Jennifer Ortman (jennifer.m.ortman@census.gov).

Assistant Professor, Sociology of Education, New York University. The Department of Humanities and Social Sciences in the Professions invites applications for a tenure-track position in Sociology of Education at the rank of Assistant Professor to start September 1, 2013. Responsibilities include teaching and advising students at all levels of the department's curriculum; undergraduate, master's, and doctoral; supervising student research; developing an active program of externally funded research and publication; and participating in program/department/school-level committees. For best consideration, materials should be submitted by November 1, 2012.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Demography, Université de Montréal. The Demography Department is seeking candidates for a full-time tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor position specializing in population aging. Successful candidate are expected to teach all three levels of the curriculum, supervise graduate students, conduct research, produce publications, and contribute to the reputation and academic life of the institution. The expected starting date will be June 1, 2013. Application deadline: November 5, 2012.
Postdoctoral Research Fellowships, Nuffield College. Nuffield College intends to appoint, with effect from 1 September 2013, a number of Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs). Applications are invited from graduates of any country wishing to undertake research in any area of the social sciences except Economics, for which there is a separate competition. Applicants who wish to undertake research in Economic History, or interdisciplinary research which includes Economics will be considered. The main interests of the College are in Economics, Politics and Sociology, but these are broadly construed to include, for example, social science approaches to history, social and medical statistics, international relations, social psychology, public policy, and social policy. Application deadline: November 5, 2012.

(2) Assistant Professors and (1) Associate or Full Professor of Sociology, University of Connecticut. The Department of Sociology at the University of Connecticut invites applications for two tenure-track positions at the Assistant Professor level, and one at the tenured Associate or Full Professor level, with a starting date of August 23, 2013 (Search # 2013179). We are seeking candidates who will pursue rigorous research programs, contribute to graduate and undergraduate teaching, provide service to the university and the profession, and seek external funds to support their scholarly activities. The areas of hiring priority are sociology of family; race, racism and ethnic group relations; and sociology of culture or social movements. Application deadline: November 9, 2012.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Sociology & El Instituto, University of Connecticut. The Sociology Department at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a tenure track position to begin August 23, 2013 (Search #2013182). The successful candidate will be jointly appointed with the El Instituto. The successful candidate will pursue rigorous research programs, contribute to graduate and undergraduate teaching, provide service to the university and the profession, and seek external funds to support their scholarly activities. Candidates must have an earned PhD in Sociology by August 23, 2013; research that focuses on Latino populations in the United States; ability to teach qualitative research methods; and substantive research interests in at least one of the following areas of specialization: health and health care organization; gender and sexuality, labor, family, criminology. Application deadline: November 15, 2012.

Senior Research Officer, Department of Sociology, University of Essex. Work as part of a team on the research project ‘Migration Histories of Turks in Europe’ (LineUp), which is funded by the NORFACE (New Opportunities for Research Funding Agency Co-operation in Europe). This international collaborative research involves partners from the UK, Germany, and Netherlands. A doctorate in sociology, economics, demography or a related social science discipline and high-level skills in organising and analysing complex data from large scale surveys are essential. Application deadline: November 18, 2012.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, McGill University. Applications are invited for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position, commencing August 1, 2013. (While the appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, appointment at the rank of Associate may be possible under exceptional circumstances.) We are looking to expand our strength in the area of Population Dynamics. Within this substantive area, all research foci are of interest. However, research on critical issues in developing countries such as fertility and urbanization is particularly welcome. This position is part of an initiative in the Faculty of Arts to become a major centre for research and teaching on population dynamics. Ability to teach quantitative methods (including demographic methods) is expected. Application deadline: November 23, 2012.

AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships. The AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships are opportunities for professional development and public service. They are operated by AAAS as part of its mandate to “advance science and serve society.” The aim is to foster scientifically informed, evidence-based policy and practice by involving scientists and engineers from a broad range of disciplines, backgrounds and career stages to engage their knowledge and analytical skills while learning first-hand about policymaking and implementation at the federal level; and to build leadership for a strong S&T enterprise that benefits all people. Application deadline: December 5, 2012.

Assistant Professor, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences (Sociology), Arizona State University. The New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences at Arizona State University invites applications for the tenure track position of Assistant Professor in Sociology with an emphasis on structures of class inequality. Applicants must have expertise in class inequality in global contexts, including the U.S. Of particular interest are scholars who explore inequality using historic, comparative, extended case and/or institutional ethnographic methods in their research. To qualify applicants must have a PhD in Sociology by August, 2013, evidence of an ongoing research program and level of publication consistent with experience, and evidence of successful college/university teaching. Application deadline: January 7, 2012.

Fred H. Bixby Fellowship Program. Through a generous grant from the Fred H. Bixby Foundation, the Population Council created the Bixby Fellowship Program to expand opportunities for recently trained social scientists and biomedical researchers in the health and population fields. More than 20 fellows have participated in the program since 2007, and applications are currently being sought for the 2013 competition. Bixby fellowships allow citizens of developing countries to work with experienced mentors in the Council’s international network of offices. Fellows work on projects in the Council’s three program areas: Reproductive Health, HIV/AIDS, and Poverty, Gender and Youth. Application deadline: January 31, 2013.

RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging. The RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging enables outstanding junior scholars in demographic and aging research to sharpen their analytic skills, learn to communicate research results effectively, and advance their research agenda. Housed within RAND Labor and Population, the program blends formal and informal training and extensive collaboration with distinguished researchers in a variety of disciplines. Fellowships are for one year, renewable for a second. Each fellow receives a competitive annual stipend, travel stipend and health insurance. Application deadline: February 22, 2013.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields. Admission to the Demography minor requires that at least one member of the student’s special committee is a CPC affiliate. Students interested in signing up for the Demography minor should contact Lindy Williams or Geysa Smiljanic.

Cornell University Doctoral/Postdoctoral Diversity Fellowships. The Cornell diversity fellowships are designed to support the early development of scholars who show promise of distinguished research careers and who are from sectors of the population historically underrepresented on the professorial faculties of colleges and universities in the United States. Eligible applicants might be from underrepresented minority groups, have faced economic hardship, be first-generation college graduates, or work on topics related to these areas. This list is not meant to be exhaustive. Applications should include a brief statement of the grounds of eligibility. Application deadline: November 1, 2012.

2013-2014 IAF Fellowship Competition. Fellowships are available to currently registered students who have advanced to candidacy (by the time research begins) for the Ph.D. in the social sciences, physical sciences, technical fields and the professions as related to grassroots development issues. Awards are based on both development and scholarly criteria. Proposals should offer a practical orientation to field-based information. Application deadline: January 22, 2013.
International Research Travel Grant. The Mario Einaudi Center and its associated Programs sponsor the International Research Travel Grants. These grants provide travel support for Cornell University graduate students conducting short-term research and/or field work in countries outside the United States. Applicants must be enrolled in an approved PhD or Masters degree program at Cornell University. They must also show proof that they have applied for funding from the Director of Graduate Studies in their own fields of study. Application deadline: Early February, 2013.
