EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES
Frank H.T. Rhodes Postdoctoral Fellowship, Cornell Population Center. The Cornell Population Center (CPC) invites applicants for the Frank H.T. Rhodes Post-doctoral Fellowships. The start date for the position will be August 15, 2015 and will be funded for 2 years, subject to a satisfactory first year evaluation. Selection will be based on scholarly potential, ability to work in multi-disciplinary settings, and the support of a faculty mentor and CPC affiliate at Cornell who will work closely with the post-doctoral associate. Preference will be given to fellows with research interests in areas broadly related to the CPC’s four main foci: families & children; health behaviors & disparities; poverty & inequality; and immigration & diversity. Especially encouraged are applications from candidates whose research has significance for those countries on which the fellowship’s funder focuses – the United States, the Republic of Ireland, Northern Ireland, Vietnam, South Africa, and Bermuda. Screening of applications begins December 1, 2014, and will continue until the position is filled.

Postdoctoral Research Associate, University of Colorado-Boulder. The Institute of Behavioral Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a two-year post-doctoral research associate position, beginning no later than the Fall of 2015. The position will involve working in Professor Myron Gutmann’s research group, focusing on research that links population and environment and on issues in data science related to data access and preservation. Open until filled.

(3) Associate/ Full Professor of Successful Longevity, Florida State University. The Department of Urban and Regional Planning invites applications for positions in the new interdisciplinary FSU Center on Public Policy for Successful Aging located within the College of Social Sciences and Public Policy. The Center is seeking three scholars at the associate or full professor level who will have a tenured appointment in a unit in the College. Successful candidates are expected to have a strong record of funded research and demonstrated a commitment to interdisciplinary research on public policy issues related to successful longevity. Open until filled.

(2) Assistant/Advanced Assistant Professor of Sociology, UMass Amherst. One position is Open with strong preference for a candidate whose research and teaching address Law, Crime, and Incarceration. The second position is Open although some preference may be given to candidates whose research and teaching address any of the following areas: (1) Class Inequality, (2) Quantitative Methods/Demography, (3) Textual Analysis using the Internet, and (4) Culture and Identity. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in sociology or a closely related field and a record of scholarly achievement appropriate for appointment at the Assistant Professor rank at a research-intensive university. Open until filled.

Research Associate I, Urban Institute. The Program on Retirement Policy in the Urban Institute's Income and Benefits Policy Center is seeking a Research Associate to conduct research on issues related to retirement income security. The program focuses on such topics as Social Security and private pension reform, retirement savings, long-term care policy, health care costs, and employment at older ages. The program is a major project within the Urban Institute, a nationally recognized, nonprofit, nonpartisan social and economic policy research organization located in Washington DC. Candidates holding a Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related field are preferred. The candidate must have strong quantitative skills and experience using micro-level databases. Open until filled.

Open Rank Professor of Demography, Cornell University. The Department of Policy Analysis and Management in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University is seeking to hire a faculty member in Demography and Public Policy. Rank is open. This will be a tenure-track position. Position will involve research and teaching in demography and population studies. There will be opportunities to advise and teach undergraduate and graduate students in the Department of Policy Analysis and Management and to work with graduate students in the Cornell Population Center and allied doctoral fields (e.g., Sociology) in the University. A Ph.D. in Sociology, Demography, Public Health, Public Policy or allied field is required. Candidates with interests if one or more of the following areas are especially encouraged to apply: population health; sexual and reproductive health, including maternal health; and race and gender inequality. Review of applications will begin on October 31, 2014 and continue until position is filled.

(2) Assistant Professor of Public Policy, Duke University. Tenure-line appointments (Assistant Professor) in the Sanford School of Public Policy The Sanford School of Public Policy invites applications for two positions at the rank of assistant professor of public policy. Both positions are open with respect to discipline. One is open in terms of research focus; the other is in the area of social policy, particularly in the areas of health, welfare, and education, though other areas will be considered. Applicants will be expected to teach core courses in one or more of our degree programs as well as electives in their research area. Ability to teach our introductory course in public policy at the undergraduate level would be highly valued. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in public policy or a related field with demonstrated policy relevant research interests. Application deadline: November 1, 2014.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Population Health Management and Policy, University of Michigan. The Department of Health Management and Policy at the University of Michigan School of Public Health is seeking a tenure-track assistant or associate professor in the area of population health management and policy. The ideal candidate has evidence or promise of an externally-funded research agenda that broadly addresses either population health management or health and health care disparities. For instance, we are interested in candidates working with special populations, such as urban, rural, disadvantaged, or vulnerable communities. Minimum requirements include an earned doctorate in fields such as sociology, demography, psychology, epidemiology, genetics, political science, statistics, economics, public health, or other relevant discipline. The successful candidate will also have strong mentoring and teaching abilities. Application deadline: November 3, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor, University of Wisconsin-Madison. The School of Human Ecology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is seeking to hire a scholar (job #79387) with a record of applied research in the area of family and financial well-being in middle and later life. To be filled at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, this is 12-month, tenure-track appointment. 75% of this appointment will be as a program specialist for Family Living Programs, University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension, and 25% as a faculty member in either the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, or the Department of Consumer Science. PhD Human Development and Family Studies, Consumer Science, Psychology, Sociology, Education, Economics, Social Work or a related discipline. Application deadline: November 3, 2014.

(2) Professorships of Demography and Social Inequality, University of Cologne (Germany). The University of Cologne, Germany, invites applications for two temporary faculty positions in Demography and Social Inequality Professorships (W2) (tenure track is possible). Candidates are expected to offer courses primarily in English at B.A. and M.A. levels. They are also expected to participate in the Research Training Group “Social Order and Life Chances in Cross-national Comparison” (SOCLIFE). The qualifications expected are a university and Ph.D. degree, international experiences, excellent academic achievements and teaching abilities. The initial appointment is for a 5 year contract. Tenure track can be given during the application process depending on academic track record, especially the excellence of the research performance and strategic fit. Application deadline: November 5, 2014.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics, UMass Amherst. The Economics Department at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst invites applications for tenure-system appointment with preference for candidates at the Associate or advanced Assistant Professor levels. Our faculty employ a wide range of mainstream and heterodox approaches, and the position is open to all fields of economics including but not limited to microeconomics, feminist economics, macroeconomics, and development economics. Application deadline: November 14, 2014.

The ideal candidate has a PhD degree in one of the Social Sciences and has experience in conducting scientific research in fields that are complementary to the expertise of the staff of the Department of Sociology, such as crime, conflict or violence. Application deadline: November 16, 2014.

Senior Research Fellowship, Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel. The Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel seeks a senior research fellow with experience in empirical, quantitative research and a demonstrable interest in time use and/or career research. The main focus of the senior research fellowship is on theory development, methodology and empirical analyses in one of the two – but preferably at the crossroad of both – research domains (time use and careers) of the research group TOR (Tempus Omnia Revelat) of the Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel. Application deadline: November 17, 2014.

National Poverty Fellows Program. The National Poverty Fellows Program offers talented postdoctoral researchers an opportunity to participate in a federal government-university partnership. The goal of the program is both to build the capacity of researchers to conduct high-quality policy-relevant research on poverty and inequality in the United States and to contribute to the effective use of research and scientific knowledge in the formation of public policy. The fellowship is open to all postdoctoral scholars who are within six years of their degree. The fellowship will last for between one and two years and up to three fellows will be selected in this recruitment. Application deadline: November 21, 2014.

Associate/Full Professor of Urban Sociology, Temple University. The Department of Sociology at Temple University seeks to hire a tenured Associate or Full Professor in the field of urban sociology for Fall 2015. We seek a scholar who studies cities and the role of space in people’s lives. We want to hire an urban sociologist who is grounded in contemporary urban theoretical issues and debates, skilled in designing empirical studies of cities and with interest in and/or experience with conducting funded research. This faculty member is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate survey courses on urban sociology as well as specialized and advanced courses in their interest area(s). Application deadline: November 30, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Applied Microeconomics, Cornell University. The Department of Policy Analysis and Management in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University is seeking to hire a faculty member in Applied Microeconomics. Rank is open. This will be a tenure-track position, with responsibilities of 50% research and 50% teaching and advising. The new hire will conduct empirical research in one or more of the following applied microeconomics areas: behavioral economics, development, economic demography, education, health, law and economics, labor economics, public finance, and regulation. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who can teach undergraduate and graduate empirical methods courses. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

(2) Assistant Professor of Economics (Labor, Health, Development), Vassar College. The Department of Economics at Vassar College invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professor positions to begin Fall 2015. Evidence of excellent teaching skills is essential. Teaching responsibilities will include a total of five courses drawn from introductory economics and intermediate economics in addition to courses in the successful candidate’s field of specialization. Additional teaching areas could include economic history, history of economic thought and political economy. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Rural Sociology, Auburn University. Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology is accepting applications for the position of Assistant Professor of Rural Sociology with focus on Natural Resources, Food and Agricultural Systems, or Community and Rural Development. This is a 9-month tenure track position (60% research, 40% instruction). Research responsibilities include developing and implementing a nationally recognized research program in one or more aspects of natural resources, food and agriculture, community, and rural development, particularly as such systems relate to landscapes and land use issues, water and waterways, aquatic- and agroecosystems, and technological change. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2919-14) to the Forte-funded project Social Networks and Health: A Panel Study. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on health and health behaviors among young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2920-14) to the ERC-funded project Individual Life Chances in Social Context - A Longitudinal Multi-Methods Perspective on Social Constraints and Opportunities. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on the life chances of young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents in Sweden. Examples of life chances that are studied in this project are health, health behaviors, education, and labor market outcomes. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Research Fellow, Education, Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC). Research fellows must have excellent skills in quantitative research, writing, external policy engagement, and communications. Research fellows have doctoral degrees from various disciplines, including demography, economics, education policy, political science, public policy, sociology, and others. Candidates should be able to demonstrate significant interest in connecting research to policy making. We seek applicants at various stages in their careers, including recent Ph.D. graduates as well as mid-career and senior level researchers. While a background in California education policy is an advantage, we also seek applicants with federal and/or other state-level education policy experience that could be translated to the California context. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. Applications are now being accepted for the next cohort (Sept 2015-August 2017) of David E. Bell Postdoctoral Fellows. The program
CORNELL POPULATION CENTER provides opportunities for interdisciplinary, population science research and leadership training in a two year non-degree program. Selected candidates possess a strong record of academic training, proven research experience, a commitment to population and development work, the demonstrated ability to work independently, and leadership potential. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economist, Office of the Commissioner/Office of Planning, Food and Drug Administration. The FDA anticipates openings for economists at the GS-12 to GS-13 level and at the GS-14 level. Positions are on the Economics Staff, Office of Planning in the Office of the Commissioner, and cover agency responsibilities for prescription and over-the-counter drugs, medical and radiological devices, biological products, tobacco, food safety and nutrition, and veterinary products. Duties include conducting cost-benefit analyses of regulations and agency policies; quantitative, statistical, and risk analyses; and mission related economic research. Successful candidates must be able to write and speak clearly to groups of different sizes and backgrounds, and to work independently and on multi-disciplinary teams. U.S. citizenship is required. We welcome all candidates with expertise in applied microeconomics (such as health, labor and demography, development, environmental, IO, welfare economics, and international trade) or regulatory economics. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Human Services Researcher, Mathematica. Mathematica is a nationally recognized research organization that conducts public policy studies in the areas of early childhood, nutrition, education, labor, family support, health care, disability, and international development. We are looking to hire several Ph.D.-level researchers to lead significant studies. Mathematica is currently conducting over 200 studies. Ph.D. or equivalent in economics, public policy, sociology, demography, statistics, psychology, education, or a related field Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economists, U.S. Census Bureau. The U.S. Census Bureau anticipates multiple job openings for economists. The Census Bureau provides an excellent environment for empirically-oriented economists to use confidential microdata on businesses and households, linked employer-employee data, and confidential microdata from federal and state administrative and statistical agencies to conduct research on a wide range of topics. These topics include business dynamics (industrial organization, productivity, trade, entrepreneurship, and innovation); labor dynamics (employment activity and worker flows); income dynamics (earnings, taxation, assets, poverty, and program participation); health (disability, health status, and insurance markets); household dynamics (housing, family structure, education, and migration); and disclosure avoidance techniques (confidentiality and privacy research). Application deadline: December 15, 2014.

Economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The Microeconomics Group at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago seeks an economist at any experience level to conduct empirical research on applied microeconomics issues such as labor markets, immigration, education, public finance, consumer finance, or industrial organization. Application deadline: December 31, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology (Quantitative Methods), Virginia Tech. Virginia Tech invites applications for one full-time, nine-month, tenure-track position (#TR0140133) in quantitative methods in the Department of Sociology at the Assistant Professor level to begin Fall, 2015. Applicants must be competent in advanced quantitative methods and statistics. Additional competency in survey design and analysis is preferred. Substantive areas of research are open. Applicants must have Ph.D. in hand at the start of appointment. We seek a scholar who will contribute to graduate training in advanced quantitative methods, maintain a productive research program, and contribute to both the graduate and undergraduate programs. Application deadline: January 1, 2015.

Developing Asia Health Policy Fellowship, Stanford University. The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center, Stanford University (Shorenstein APARC) and the Asia Pacific Observatory on Health Systems and Policy (APO) are pleased to announce their collaborative Developing Asia Health Policy Fellowship. The Postdoctoral Fellow will participate in the Stanford Asia Health Policy Program while undertaking original research on contemporary health or healthcare policy of high relevance to countries in the Asia-Pacific region. The Fellow will benefit from the APO network of researchers and research institutions throughout the Asia Pacific region, including contacts with governments, to facilitate access to data and needed references for their research. Application deadline: January 15, 2015.

Associate Professor/Senior Lecturer of Sociology, Lund University. The Department of Sociology at Lund University seeks at least one Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor). The successful candidate will teach sociology courses on the Bachelors, Masters and PhD levels. The position includes 20 per cent research that, with support of external funding, can be extended up to 75 percent. The teaching languages are Swedish and English. The department expects a non-Swedish speaking successful candidate to learn and master Swedish within a reasonable time period. Application deadline: January 16, 2015.

Development Economist, American Institutes for Research (AIR). The American Institutes for Research (AIR) has opportunities available in Washington, D.C. for a Development Economist to work in the International Development, Evaluation, and Research program (IDER). IDER conducts impact evaluations on a wide range of topics including cash transfer programs, early childhood nutrition programs, education interventions, health product distribution programs, and agricultural interventions. Our work contributes to policy and financial decisions at the national and international level in countries around the world. A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related social science field, with expertise in econometrics or applied statistics. Application deadline: January 31, 2015.

RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging. The RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging enables outstanding junior scholars in demographic and aging research to sharpen their analytic skills, learn to communicate research results effectively, and advance their research agenda. Housed within RAND Labor and Population, the program blends formal and informal training and extensive collaboration with distinguished researchers in a variety of disciplines. Fellowships are for one year, renewable for a second. Each fellow receives a competitive annual stipend, travel stipend and health insurance. Application deadline: February 20, 2015.

Open Rank Professor of Economics, Purdue University. The Department of Economics invites applications for at least one tenure-track or tenured position. Candidates at all ranks (Assistant, Associate and Full Professor) will be considered; appointments will begin August, 2015. The Department is seeking applications from exceptional candidates in all fields; candidates in the areas of Industrial Organization, Health, Education, Labor and Public Economics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates are expected to conduct policy-relevant research, to supervise Ph.D. dissertation research and to teach at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics or closely related field. Application deadline: March 31, 2014.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields. Admission to the Demography minor requires that at least one member of the student’s special committee is a CPC affiliate. Students interested in signing up for the Demography minor should contact Lindy Williams or Geysa Smiljanic.

CPC Graduate Student Reading Group. The Demography/Population reading group will meet in Fall 2014. For each meeting, a participant will serve as the leader, providing 2 or 3 articles and/or chapters to read related to their topic of interest. This group will facilitate student exposure to a breadth of literature across all of population studies and also develop some cross-disciplinary links. If you are interested in participating, please just send your name, department, and general area of interest/specialty to Christopher Gronberg.
Center for Economic Studies Dissertation Mentorship Program. The Center for Economic Studies wants to assist doctoral candidates who are actively engaged in dissertation research in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Eligible candidates must be actively working on a Ph.D. thesis in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Acceptance will be on a rolling basis, as funding and staffing resources allow.

Historical Demography at the University of Colorado-Boulder. The Department of History at the University of Colorado-Boulder, in partnership with CU-Boulder’s Institute of Behavioral Science, hopes to recruit Ph.D.-level students with interests in quantitative approaches to the environmental and demographic history of the American West. Five year funding packages are available that combine research and teaching assistantships.
